DAILY RECORD-UNION

CITY OFFICIAL PAPER.

WEDNESDAY..... FEBRUARY 2, 1887

RECORD-UNION is the only paper on the coast, outside of San Francisco, that receives the full Associated Press dispatches from all parts of the world. Outside of San Francisco it has no competitor, in point of numbers, in its home and general circulation throughout the coast.

NEWS OF THE MORNING.

EXTERIOR.—John T. Little, a clerk of the First National Bank of San Francisco, has been seconded....The New York merchants are opposed to raising the price of Turkish prunes....The Navy Department has nearly completed the drawing up of the contract for construction of a dynamite ship....Moreover, the bill will not be called up this session....Congressman Reagan has been elected United States Senator in Texas....President Cleveland has accepted the position of Consul General of the Dako Territory....The strike among the freight handlers is taking larger dimensions....Assistant Secretary Fairchild will succeed Secretary Manning....The Southern Telegraph was sold at public auction at New York, Va., yesterday....Silver in New York, 102½.

FINNAN.—There was a panic on the Paris Bourse yesterday....The Canadians are getting up a war excitement against an imaginary foe....Michael Davitt had an audience before the House....The British Convention is in session at San Francisco.

The gentlemen of Pluma county, A. T., are favoring a new quarantine law against diseases, cattle, &c. Raids in different portions of the State yesterday....A terrific wind-storm is raging at Truckee....Serious charges have been preferred against the Chief Engineer of the San Jose Fire Department.

A PROPOSITION TO STEP BACKWARD.

A bill has been refused a first reading in the Legislature to make the legal rate of interest 6 per cent. That far it was unobjectionable, as it put the rate in line with the normal market rate. Other sections of the bill provided criminal penalties for contracting to receive, or for receiving, any greater sum for interest than 6 per cent., and visited severe punishment upon offenders, and incited informers by promising them half the fines imposed and collected.

The promptness with which the bill was negatived testifies to the clear judgment of a representative body that the State should take no backward steps. But that such a bill sought a hearing shows that some still believe usury laws wise, and possibly that the Government should carry out the policy of interfering with the right of contract in other ways as unwise. It is interesting, therefore, to examine the reasons that have led to the abandonment of the regulative power of Government in the matter of usury.

The certainty of a law rather than its severity insures respect for it. The bill in question would have doctored its own purposes because it was so very severe. Such laws are nearly always evaded, and presently become dead letters and enumber the statute books. The wiser policy, after fixing the legal rate of interest, is to leave to personal freedom any contract between the parties for the hire of capital.

Money is a commodity, lent, sold and transferred as are other commodities, according to the need of one and the ability of the other to supply it. The usury law would be very imperfect that left a man free to charge such interest as he saw fit by way of rent of property representing invested money, but forbidding the loaning of the coin itself at more than a given rate. The doctrine that supports usury laws, to be logical, should embrace all rewards of investment, and thus we would have a paternalism reaching to and regulating the profits upon all merchandise and upon all property that can be bought and sold or rented for use.

Several States have attempted to enforce usury laws, but with comparatively little success. The moral sense of the people holds it to be contrary to reason that a man shall not sell the use of money on such terms as he and the borrower may agree. If we suppose a usury law such as that contemplated, fitted by drastic penalties—ever as was proposed with those qualities—that puts him in the chair, and what he at present may lack in technical information concerning the rules of debate and the ethics of parliamentary procedure, is the hundred fold compensated by the stern integrity of the man, his perfect honesty of purpose, the care that is constantly his to do even-handed justice, and the diligence with which he applies himself to his duties. Better the man whose conceptions of fair play are clear and unmistakable, and whose solid honesty and firmness in the discharge of duty excite admiration and respect, than the accomplished parliamentarian who lacks any of these qualities. That Gov. Waterman, fresh from plow and vine, is not a parliamentary lawyer, gives no warrant for the vicious assault referred to. No self-respecting man would be tempted by it. The Senate has acted properly in defending the dignity of its chief officer, and in rebuking the sensational journalism that mistakes severity for courage, and filth for enterprise. It has acted with becoming dignity in protesting against the influence that makes the possession of a few types and a press the excuse for abuse. All men of fair mind and regard for the common proprieties of life, will entertain the hope that the Senate may unseat the coward who thrusts the printed defiance into the household of Governor Waterman.

To-morrow the first of the new excursion trains from Los Angeles to the north and central section will leave that city. It ought to mark the inauguration of a new impulse in the development of Central and Northern California. Sacramento and Northern California should have agents upon each of these new cheap trains—which will mainly be occupied by Eastern people—to turn just as many of them as possible this way. The excursionists will be strangers for most part, and not with any definite point of destination in view. To San Francisco the most of them will drift, and they will see only the country adjacent to the metropolis, unless we exert ourselves to bring them into the Sacramento valley. This should be done. The trains ought to be rich in immigration literature expository of all the north and central section, and pointing out the routes of travel and the natural beauties and advantages of the central and northern counties.

The great strike at the East has advanced to the dynamic stage, and we may now expect to hear of shattered ships wrecked wharves and coal houses going skyward. By which the strikers will again succeed in repelling even such little sympathy as they may have had from a portion of the public. A more senseless and useless strike has not been known than that now in progress, for it is not punishing capital and employer a tenth as much as the tens of thousands of poor people who are thrown out of employment, but who have taken no part in the strike.

For Government to attempt compel the lender to take less than the market worth of money at the time of the loan is infringement of the rights of property and

SUNDAY LAW.

THE QUESTION DISCUSSED BY ITS SUPPORTERS.

Mass Meeting in the Assembly Chamber Last Evening—Brief Synopsis of the Speeches.

The mass meeting held in the Assembly Chamber last evening for the purpose of discussing the Sunday law question, was largely attended, the members' desks being occupied by ladies principally. The lobby was well filled as was also the gallery. It was quite a noticeable fact that members of the Assembly were conspicuous by their absence, and few of the Senators graced the meeting with their presence. If the object of holding the meeting in the Capitol building was to secure the attendance of a number of the lawmakers of the State here, that much it was a failure. It was to bring out an audience of representative men and women of this city, then it was a decided success.

Rev. Dr. Frost called the meeting to order. He said they had met in the interest of a question that was semi-political and semi-moral; not to reflect public sentiment but to create it. It was a great question; one that concerns every individual every home, every State, every City in the Union.

He then introduced as the Chairman of the Assemblies SPEAKER BORDEN.

Mr. Jordan in assuming the chair, said: Ladies and Gentlemen. While the surroundings are not unfamiliar, to preside over this assembly gives me no little embarrassment. His position remained the same that it was in the House of Assembly when he was a member of the Committee on Education, visited the State Normal School.

When brought into the presence of several hundred young ladies, this gentleman was silent until a speech. He eloquently argued and supported his speech with something like this: Young ladies, I am very much embarrassed; indeed, I am. And this assembly right to worship God, and with the toiling masses, with

The garb of the hero is the armor of toil.

What the Netherlands observed the Sabbath, we have observed the Sabbath, my people, but when they impeded the observance of the Sabbath from France their prosperity quickly departed.

The Sunday law does not require a man to read the Sabbath to pray, to go to church, to express his sentiments for any religious sect. It requires them to abstain from those things that interfere with the rights of others. Do you please let me say, that it is a violation of the rights of others.

Transportation and Markets.

CHEAP AND RAPID TRANSPORTATION is of the utmost importance to those who are both producers and consumers of all kinds of products, and it also enhances the price of all the products.

THE "LANGFORD COLONY" is most advantageously situated in this respect. It is between two railroads that both connect with steamboats that run from the Sacramento and San Joaquin points to the Golden Gate. This gives the cheapest freight and passenger rates for the distance in this coast. The markets for all kinds of produce are close at hand. The Western and Pacific dealers take all the fruit raised, at highly remunerative prices. There is an unlimited demand for all the wine, raisins, figs, prunes, green, dried and canned fruits that can be grown. Dairy products, fowls, eggs and vegetables find a ready sale. Every acre of land when in bearing fruit trees or vines will net $100 per acre. For further particulars apply to
